BG Fire Chief Will Attends State Fire Assn. Meet Apr. 19

Fire Chief L. W. Will was one of some 500 attending the Florida State Fireman's Association's annual convention at Lake City.

Will said the business meeting Apr. 19-21 dealt with various affairs of paid and volunteer firemen. He pointed out that the state now has 2,200 paid firemen and 2,300 volunteers in the organization.

During the session a resolution was passed endorsing the state supported Florida Fire College at Ocala. The college was started by the association in 1930 and was taken over under the department of education.

tion in 1950.

This college, Will said, offers summer training and extension course work in individual fire stations of the state.

The group also discussed pension plans and social security for firemen. The present state law states that firemen and policemen are not subject to social security. The association wants a good pension plan in operation.

Will also announced that the new fire truck has completed its breaking in period and the men have become familiar with the new procedure. The truck was put into operation as the first run unit this week.

The new truck has preconcerted lines which will be used while a second truck connects secondary lines at a fire.

USDA Will Hold Apr. 28 Hearings On Cucumber Committee Proposals

The U. S. Department of Agriculture issued a notice of a hearing this week to be held in the Lee County Court House, Ft. Myers, beginning at 9:30 a. m. May 28 to consider a proposed marketing agreement and order for cucumbers grown in this state south or east of the Suwannee River.

Minard F. Miller, field representative of USDA, said the hearing was requested by the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association at the direction of interested cucumber growers and shippers.

Terms and provisions of the proposed agreement and order were worked out by cucumber growers and shippers during a recent series of meetings held throughout the state.

The agreement would be administered by a committee to be known as the Florida Cucumber Committee consisting of eight producers and four handlers.

Committee members would be selected on the basis of four districts within the production area with two producers and one handler representative for each district.

The committee would be authorized to recommend grade and size regulations as conditions warrant. The purpose of this meeting will be to receive evidence on each phase and part of the proposal.

Turnpike Authority Will Receive Bids On Various Items Today

Bids for roadway signs and delineators, interchange and service area lighting and toll collection, audit and accounting equipment will be received today by the Florida State Turnpike Authority, in Ft. Lauderdale.

Lighting bids will cover illumination for the ten interchanges and three service areas on the Miami to Fort Pierce Turnpike. The turnpike away from these areas will not be lighted.

Roadway signs will include 1,000 directional, informational and warning notices along with nearly 6,000 delineators which will mark the roadway with reflectors.

Toll audit, collection and accounting equipment will be operated automatically and will count, register, and record all vehicles entering and leaving each of the 10 toll plazas at the interchanges along with fees.

The Florida State Turnpike Authority requires completion of these contracts by January 1, 1957 — scheduled opening date.

When these contracts are awarded the Turnpike Authority will have only toll plaza and service area buildings and a communications system to place under contract for the completion of all the work on the Turnpike.

What Do Navy Men Do When They Retire?

Do "old" Navy men sit down in their private "snug harbor" and wait for their monthly retirement check? "No indeed," explained Chief Tillman, of the West Palm Beach Navy Recruiting Station. "In the first place," the average Navyman retires when he is under 40 years of age, with 20 years of experience; in a technical field, he is then able to put his experience to work in civilian life for top pay; regardless of outside income the retired enlisted man continues to receive his retirement check.

Do the retired men lose interest in going to sea? On this Chief Tillman said that retired men and their accompanying dependents, are eligible for transportation to and from most ports visited by ships of the Military Sea Transport Service; these include such places as Alaska, Newfoundland, Northern Europe, the Mediterranean, and Caribbean ports of call.

So there you are, retire for life if you desire, at an early age, meanwhile, you can really enjoy it, take a yearly tour and let "Uncle Sam" foot the bill. Should you decide to supplement your earnings, fall back on 20 years of technical "know-how". Interested young men and women, the line forms each morning Wed., Thurs., and Fri. 9:30 to 12:30 at the Navy Recruiting Station, the local draft board in Belle Glade, receive all the information about "Navy Sign Up Month."

Discussions and workshops for the delegates continued Tuesday morning with adjournment scheduled for noon, Tuesday morning. The Rotarians of Rotary International in Philadelphia.

Roberts' Migrant Committee Finds
Citrus Area In Better Situation

Problems of migrant workers connected with the citrus industry was discussed at a meeting in Winter Haven April 25 when Governor Collins' migrant labor committee held hearings in that city.

Chairman of the committee, Emmett S. Roberts of Belle Glade, told The Herald that some of the problems found among vegetable workers did not exist among citrus harvesters.

One major find of the committee was that housing for citrus workers appeared adequate now; however, more units would be necessary for anticipated expansion of the industry in the next few years.

Another point brought out by citrus industry spokesmen at the hearing was the fact that so many migrant workers recruited from other states were not reliable workers. Many quit the fields after a few days' work.

A spokesman from a large citrus corporation told the group that too often the workers obtained by the state employment service were too old or too young and that the promised number seldom appeared.

Single rather than family workers was preferred, he told the committee.

As a means of eliminating some stumbling blocks to obtaining proper quality and quantity of workers, some suggested that industry leaders go with recruits in to other states to screen workers.

Still another suggestion was a training school for those who had never worked in citrus areas before. Domestic labor, it was stated, was better than out-of-state recruited labor. Many times skilled vegetable workers did not make good citrus workers.

A public health official from Orange county told the committee that the only problems relating to health, sanitation and housing among migrants came

Port Of Palm Beach Earns Citation
For Armed Forces Reserve Endeavor

Port of Palm Beach officials this week received official word from Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson in Washington, D. C., informing that the Department of Defense Reserve Award has been awarded your organization in recognition of its outstanding record for cooperation with reservists and reserve activities of the Armed Forces.

Port of Palm Beach ranked second among thousands of business, industrial, civic and other organizations throughout the nation which had been nominated by Naval Reservists for the coveted defense honor. The port was beaten out of first national place by the City of Los Angeles.

Secretary Wilson's letter, addressed to Billy B. Burns, Chairman, Board of Commissioners of the Port of Palm Beach District, stated that at an early date a representative of the military department "designated to monitor this award will arrange for appropriate presentation ceremonies" and added that the "Reserve award pennant and the citation attesting to the award will be delivered to you during the ceremony."

Burns, speaking for his fellow commissioners, William H. Dyer, Vice Chairman, and L. R. Bishop, Port Director, declared: "We are tremendously proud to learn of this award for it is significant that Port of Palm Beach has a lifetime tradition of closest cooperation with all of the Armed Services. We are, most especially, close to the Naval Reserve because of the port activities and the fact that the U. S. Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center is located on Port property."

Burns immediately telephoned Rear Adm. George C. Crawford, USN, Commandant of the Sixth Naval District with headquarters at Charleston, S. C., to inform him of and to await his pleasure concerning formal presentation. The reserve award pennant and citation are expected to reach Burns and the other Port commissioners through official defense channels and Adm. Crawford.

The nomination for the reserve award to Port of Palm Beach was made originally by Captain Norville W. Sharpe, USNR-R, commanding officer of the Volunteer Advisory Staff at the training center; and manager of Port's industrial development department and Lt. Comdr. George H. Antell (SC) USNR-R, the Port's traffic manager.

Burns said he understands the official presentation ceremony will be held at the Port with arrangements being made at the discretion of Adm. Crawford.

FHP Investigates Over
1,600 Auto Accidents

Sixteen hundred and forty-nine accidents were investigated on highways outside of Florida towns and cities in March when 72 persons lost their lives and 818 were injured.

March was the worst of traffic death months in the state's history, with a total 131 dead from traffic crashes both inside and out of towns and cities of the state.

The week total was up 10 per cent over a comparable month last year and the death rate up 45 per cent in wrecks and deaths investigated by the patrol alone.

While the month was going down in history as a bloody massacre with the gasoline powered death tool, the patrol struggled to save lives, too.

Enforcement was up 27 per cent from 4,533 arrests in March 1955 to 5,745 arrests last month. Written warnings went up 19 per cent and safety speeches and radio talks rose 34 per cent in the first and 295 per cent

PRIDE... PROGRESS...

and Prosperity

Governor LeRoy Collins has clearly shown in less than 16 months of office that he can give Florida sound, sincerely administered government free of scandal, racketeering and sham—a government in which Floridians can take pride. LeRoy Collins has kept every pledge he made to carry Florida forward. He has won Florida national recognition as a solidly growing state with progressive government and a great future so long as good government—the Collins-type of government—prevails.

Since the Collins Administration began, Florida has enjoyed its greatest period of prosperity.

Population has grown by more than 2,600 new residents from out of state every week. The personal income of Floridians has increased nearly twice as fast as the national average. Farm income in Florida is gaining while declining elsewhere. The tourist tide is growing rapidly, winter and summer. New industry is entering Florida at a rate never before equalled. Such industries range from small one-man plants to giant $85,000,000 chemical establishments. Job opportunities are up, unemployment down.

It has been a period of advance for all Florida—North and South and Central, big counties and little counties.

Florida's Future and Your Future

Florida's opportunities—your opportunities—your children's opportunities—are boundless. But, as Governor Collins says, we must "Keep Florida Climbing toward its destiny without faltering, without detouring, without risking setbacks under untired or unstable leadership."

And here is LeRoy Collins' Program

Continued progress under the far-reaching platform overwhelmingly endorsed by the people of Florida two years ago and carried forward without exception since then.

Completion of work on:
a revised constitution
fair reapportionment of legislative representation turquoise construction and road programs, including urban expressways, based upon need elimination of tax inequities conservation and development of water and other natural resources

Maintenance of segregation and avoidance of disorder

Stepped up promotion of tourism
Broadened agricultural research

"Sound" industrial development, including good community planning and labor-management harmony

Adequate education, health and welfare programs

Reorganizations where possible to effect economy and efficiency.

LeRoy Collins has been a great Governor for All Florida. Let's keep him for a full term and Keep Florida Climbing.

Tax Assessor Here Warns Against Illegal Rackets And Solicitors

This city has been plagued for the past few years by an influx of solicitors, beggars and racketeers according to Clarence Tilton, tax assessor.

Tilton, who supervises the issuance of licenses to itinerant tradesmen and solicitors says many of these people are working more or less of a racket. The sum of money taken from residents of this city by illegal solicitation and begging amounts to thousands of dollars.

Tilton explained that if this money were left in the city and in possession of the residents there would be a backlog of seeing-eye dogs and guide the dog into open doors to place his tin cup directly in front of each person in a room and leave the room by leading his dog to the door.

Another group is the charity solicitors, Tilton said. These persons present a brochure for their work; however, upon investigation, one would not find an affidavit to any of their statements. They are collecting this up to a fine point over a period of years where it is difficult for the public to distinguish the honest from the dishonest.

"So to be safe, give nothing to an unknown solicitor, beggar or person who holds a city license."

The Chamber of Commerce also issues solicitor identification cards which must be presented upon request.

"We would like the public to take note, for their own protection," Tilton continued, "of all people begging, soliciting money or peddling from house to house or on the street unless they have a license issued by the city."

"It would be best for them to call the police department to give a description of the man, any vehicle he may be driving and the nature of what he is selling."

Tilton said that dealing with out-of-town people only made the economy of this city suffer.

amaryllis, gerbera, gladioli and other flowers were demonstrated. A large number of guests and visitors attended.

Mrs. Herschel Young, Mrs. Carl Ingman, Mrs. Vernon Powers, Mrs. Ray Roth and Mrs. Herbert Chapman were visitors. Members attending were Mrs. R. Y. Crech, Jr., Mrs. Roy Brown, Mrs. Louis Kirchman, Mrs. J. E. Jones, Mrs. Robert Abel, Mrs. Barnes Smith, Mrs. Junius Harris, Mrs. A. C. Stone, Mrs. Fred Raulerson and Mrs. Payne.

Knott Campaigns For Commission

Mayor Rex Knott, Riviera Beach, who has announced his candidacy for Port Commissioner, Port of Palm Beach, Sub. Dist. 2, Group 2, states he is in favor of the Port paying its own way.

"For the past 12 years the Port has collected $4,400,000 from the taxpayer, an average of $367,000 per year. Due to the fact that receipts were only $1,318,000, the taxpayers had to make up the difference," he stated.

With aggressive and intelligent promotion to secure additional business to take the load off the taxpayer, Mayor Knott believes the Port could pay its own way. He is entirely in favor of attracting industries to the area and believes inducements should be offered to desirable industries that will provide more employment for the county's citizens.

Mayor Knott has been a resident of Riviera Beach for 18 years, in Palm Beach for 20 years. He is a distributor for Revlon products and has maintained offices on Datura Street, West Palm Beach, for 26 years. He is married and has a son Bobby, who will graduate in June from the University of Florida. Member of the Lions Club and ex-member of South Eastern Union of Fire Chiefs. During World War II, Knott devoted 34 months to the flight line at Morrison Field, now known as FBI.

In 1949, Knott was elected a councilman at Riviera Beach, re-elected three times, and was Chairman of the Council. He is now serving his fourth year as mayor.

Blaze Takes Toll At Bel Vita Farms

Fire destroyed a feed mill and storage plant at Bel Vita Farms early Sunday morning. This was the second fire in less than two years for Bel Vita Farms.

Fire broke out about 2:30 a. m. Apr. 21 from an undetermined cause and the buildings had burned before city fire fighting equipment could reach the blaze.

A unit from the Everglades Fire Control District stood by but did not go into action. One other storage plant nearby was not burned, firemen said. Bel Vita Farms is located near 9 Mile Bend.

At 6:40 p. m. Apr. 21 firemen fought a blaze at 744 SW Ave. E. Firemen said the blaze began when someone spilled water on a kerosene stove causing it to flame up and ignite the nearby wall.

The property of Vester Meeks was partly destroyed when fire destroyed over three rooms in a six-room flat behind the Alabama-Georgia store. Other rooms were damaged from smoke and heat.

Firemen also reported a mattress fire Apr. 22 at 12:35 a. m. in an apartment adjoining Nick's Bar on W. Ave. A. The cause of the blaze was unknown and the fire destroyed only the mattress leaving the apartment unharmed.

Wage-Hour Division Chief Warns Against Child Labor Violations

Federal child labor laws are designed to keep school-age children out of farm work during school hours, and penalties for willful violations can be stiff, according to a warning issued here today by Clem J. Denice, investigation supervisor of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division here.

Denice said that every farmer who intends to hire children to dig potatoes or perform other agricultural jobs should be careful to secure complete information about this law in order to avoid unintentional violations.

The federal law makes it illegal for children under 16 to work on a farm at any time during school hours for the district where the child is currently living. The only exception to this provision allows a parent to employ his own children on his own farm. The child may not work for neighbors or other farmers during school hours.

"Children of migrant families are restricted in their work on farms to times outside school hours in any district where they are housed," Denice explained. He added that work hours of casual or chance visitors from nearby areas are governed by school hours of the district where their homes are located since they usually return to their homes each night.

No prohibition exists against employing children in agriculture outside school hours, on crop holidays, weekends or at other times when school is not in session. Denice said many families established crop holidays for short harvest periods; this allows children of all ages to assist in gathering crops.

The Fair Labor Standards Act provides for penalties up to a $10,000 fine upon conviction of willful violations of the child labor requirements. A second conviction of willful violation may result in similar fine, imprisonment for 6 months, or both.

Farmers in this area should be sure to learn the correct age of any young person they intend to employ. He said the farmer is protected from unintentional violation of the child labor provisions of the law if he has an appropriate certificate of age, which shows the young person to be at least 16. In Florida the certificates may be obtained from the county school superintendents.

Records which farmers should maintain on every minor under 19 years of age include the minor's full name, his home address, date of birth, and occupation in which he is employed. These records should be maintained for three years.

Denice said that neither the $1 minimum wage nor the overtime provisions of the law apply to employees who are working on farms. He added that the full exemption from the pay requirements of the law did not lessen the severity of the child labor provisions.

Farmers who have any doubt about the application of the child labor regulations or who wish to receive a bulletin on the law's requirements, should write or call the Miami Wage-Hour office which is located in the Dawson Building, 3300 N. E. Second Avenue, telephone Franklin 3-4014.

Two new recruits entered company E this week. Louis Friedberg and Leroy Huxell, both of Belle Glade, are new recruits.

Today is the last day of "Military Reserve Week" in the nation. Posters and movie short subjects are distributed in the area pointing up the advantages of a career in the National Guard.

At Monday's drill the company continued preparation for summer camp with drill and lecture weapons were made of the men received vaccinations.

Young men faced with a military obligation were urged today by Lt. Howell, commander of Company "E" to make the most of the time they will be obliged to remain in the ready reserve by starting off their service with six months of training with the active Army.

The six months training, provided for by the Reserve Forces Act of 1955, will give a young man the foundation on which he can build a career as a citizen-soldier, Lt. Howell states.

Service in the National Guard, Lt. Howell said requires one night a week for training and 15 days of field training each year.

The six months training, which includes courses in leadership, will equip a man for more rapid advancement in the National Guard. This advancement, Lt. Howell declared, can lead to appointment as a commissioned officer in the National Guard.

Systematic members of the National Guard are not required to take the six months active duty, they may volunteer for it.

The Guardmen who enlist before they are 18½ years of age and perform satisfactory service until age 28 are drafted deferred. The six months of training will reduce a Guardsman's military obligation from "until age 28" to a total of eight years.

Lt. Howell said that further information on Guard enlistment and six months training plan may be had by calling at the army 125 S. E. Avenue D or phoning WYman 6-2555.

FHP Troopers Wearing Summer Uniforms Now

Florida Highway Patrol troopers ought to be able to take things with a cooler head for the next few months.

If the preceding paragraph sounds like a pun, that's exactly what it is.

It's just a way of saying state troopers have gone into their summer gear including a new-fangled, lightweight olive-green cool hat that looks like a real Panama but isn't.

The new John B. Sigmon creation is from imported fibers, is extremely dandy and gives the troopers "a real new summer style look," declared Comdr. H. N. Kirkman.

In addition to the new look in hats, which are being used for the first time by the patrol, the men have doffed the winter-time black ties and are wearing Simpson Soutie summer shirts, with collars worn back sports style.

State troopers wear warm weather garb until October 15.

National Guard News

Two new recruits entered company E this week. Louis Friedberg and Leroy Huxell, both of Belle Glade, are new recruits.

Today is the last day of "Military Reserve Week" in the nation. Posters and movie short subjects are distributed in the area pointing up the advantages of a career in the National Guard.

At Monday's drill the company continued preparation for summer camp with drill and lecture weapons were made of the men received vaccinations.

Young men faced with a military obligation were urged today by Lt. Howell, commander of Company "E" to make the most of the time they will be obliged to remain in the ready reserve by starting off their service with six months of training with the active Army.

The six months training, provided for by the Reserve Forces Act of 1955, will give a young man the foundation on which he can build a career as a citizen-soldier, Lt. Howell states.

Service in the National Guard, Lt. Howell said requires one night a week for training and 15 days of field training each year.

The six months training, which includes courses in leadership, will equip a man for more rapid advancement in the National Guard. This advancement, Lt. Howell declared, can lead to appointment as a commissioned officer in the National Guard.

Systematic members of the National Guard are not required to take the six months active duty, they may volunteer for it.

The Guardmen who enlist before they are 18½ years of age and perform satisfactory service until age 28 are drafted deferred. The six months of training will reduce a Guardsman's military obligation from "until age 28" to a total of eight years.

Lt. Howell said that further information on Guard enlistment and six months training plan may be had by calling at the army 125 S. E. Avenue D or phoning WYman 6-2555.

It's just a way of saying state troopers have gone into their summer gear including a new-fangled, lightweight olive-green cool hat that looks like a real Panama but isn't.

The new John B. Sigmon creation is from imported fibers, is extremely dandy and gives the troopers "a real new summer style look," declared Comdr. H. N. Kirkman.

In addition to the new look in hats, which are being used for the first time by the patrol, the men have doffed the winter-time black ties and are wearing Simpson Soutie summer shirts, with collars worn back sports style.
